NEED COOPERATION TO FIGHT FRUIT FLY PEST

That owing to the lack of cooperation shown by the householders in connection with the fight against the Mediterranean fruit fly very little progress beyond actually keeping it in check can be made is the opinion of W. M. Giffard, who is in charge of the campaign.

"We tried very hard to have all the householders cooperate with us during the full just before the mango season came in, but unfortunately we did not have much success," stated Mr. Giffard this morning. "There is not very much that we can do with eight men to cover the enormous territory we have."

"Still we will do our best despite the attitude of the householders and see if we cannot stop the spread at least. The trouble lies in the fact that in nearly every case we have to make three inspections. Our man will ask the householder to clean up certain fruit and he will promise to do so. When the same place is visited the next day there has been nothing done, however, and we have to keep on going until it is cleaned up. That is part of the problem we are up against and you can see for yourself that all we can do is not very much."

WATERFRONT NOTES

Japanese Collier Returns to Dai Nippon.

After having discharged in the neighborhood of five thousand tons Japanese coal at the Inter-Island Steam Navigation bunkers, the freight steamer Shinbu Maru sailed for a return trip to Dai Nippon today. With the departure of the Japanese vessel room was made for the Norwegian steamship Guernsey, which arrived off the port on Sunday last with a full shipment of Australian coal. The Guernsey also brings coal consigned to the Inter-Island.

All Is Lovely on the Wilhelmina.

Fortune favors the travelers to the mainland in the two large liners which left these shores yesterday morning. A wireless received this morning from Captain Peter Johnson, master of the Matson Navigation steamer Wilhelmina, was to the effect that the vessel was steaming through fine weather, smooth seas with a light east wind, and with all well on board. The steamer was 128 miles off the port at 8 o'clock last evening.

Japanese Liner Has Left the Coast.

A Merchants' Exchange cable received here is to the effect that the big Japanese liner Shinbu Maru sailed from San Francisco for Honolulu at 1:30 yesterday afternoon. This vessel is bringing down a later mainland mail, perhaps a few lay-over passengers, but no cargo, and will receive prompt dispatch for the Far East through the agency of Castle & Cooke of this city.

Freight and Explosives for Honolulu.

The Inter-Island steamer Waiile was dispatched for Honolulu and Kulahele this morning, taking nearly two hundred tons fertilizer, a quantity of explosives and other lines of supplies. The Waiile carried no passengers but was given a consignment of late mail.

Mail Has Reached the Mainland.

Mail dispatched from Honolulu to the mainland in the Matson Navigation steamer Lurline arrived at San Francisco at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, according to cables received here. The Lurline left Honolulu with a fair list of passengers and a full cargo of sugar.
